

JCom is now offering a dedicated careers advice surgery run by leading experts in the European Recruitment industry.

It is aimed at people who are frustrated in their current workplace or at a crossroads in their career path and need advice about what to do next. The programme covers guidance on career changes and offers mentoring through the job application and interview process together with any other career related advice.

Working on a one to one basis with our candidates our advisors make sure they gain a comprehensive understanding of their current situation and requirements in order to point them in the right direction and unlock their potential.

We can help candidates by making sure their CV shows them in the correct light with an accurate representation, identifying their marketability to potential employers and assisting with optimising their search methodology. This enables them to hear about the right jobs and focus their job search in suitable areas, and if they wish we can go on to mentor them during the interview process through to accepting the right position for them.

These consultations are held on a weekly basis and are available by appointment only through the JCom office.
